RE: Support for Portland General Electric's Harborton Reliability Project (Case #4240019)

Dear Ms. Childs,

The Columbia Pacific Building and Construction Trades Council includes 22 affiliated local unions, representing over 20,000 construction workers in the Portland Metropolitan and Southwest Washington areas. We are pleased to support PGE's application for the Harborton Reliability Project.

The Harborton Reliability Project offers significant opportunities for our union members and the region's future through expansion of indirect projects expected in the next decade. A reliable power supply attracts new businesses, creating additional opportunities for our members. PGE has thoughtfully developed a plan that maximizes benefits and minimizes environmental impacts through years of research and planning, leading the way for progress.

Approving PGE's application for the Harborton Reliability Project is an investment in our region's economic prosperity and a direct benefit to our members and the industries we partner with. It sends a clear message that Portland is ready and open for business, encouraging companies to locate and expand here. We strongly support the approval of this application.

Sincerely,

Randall Friesen
Executive Secretary-Treasurer
Columbia Pacific Building & Construction Trades Council
